The first film of our inaugural film expo will be a feature length presentation by the Clogain Brothers of Knoxville, TN, entitled: Boyhood Chasms: Growing Up Next to the Ditch that ExxonMobil Built. This 99 minute documentary details the early childhoods of Ronnie and Richard Clogain through vintage 8mm footage taken during the 1980s in which their backyard was transformed into a virtual cesspool of oil-refinery by-product. Their father, refusing to accept a significant buyout and relocate the family, instead decided to force his family through a decade of relatively poor-health. Both Clogain brothers will be at this international debut and will promptly be received in the lobby for a brief FAQ session.

Tickets for the first annual film expo can be purchased either by single film ($8.99USD), or for the entire expo ($119USD). For more information please contact Linda Davies-Howe at 1.888.119.2233.
